

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image recording method having: forming an image by jetting an ultraviolet curable ink on a recording medium from a recording head of an ink jet system; thereafter, curing and fixing the ink placed on the recording medium by irradiation with an ultraviolet-ray; and selecting a jet condition of the recording head for an image formation from a plurality of jet conditions stored for each type of the recording medium, depending on a type of the recording medium to be used.